About the property

A charming detached four bedroom cottage of character, built circa 1600, formally two cottages that serviced the Old Water Mill, converted into one sole dwelling circa 1960 when the cottages were originally thatched. This very spacious detached property had many improvements completed in 2002, including a modern roof, a re-wire, PVC double glazed Georgian Style windows and elegant wood block floors. Approached by a country lane and benefiting side and rear gardens adjacent to open fields, this versatile family home also includes additional land adjacent to a meandering brook together with further land located just beyond the rear entrance drive abutting the country lane and the motorway, all together approximately one third of an acre in total. Features include charming fireplaces one with a cast iron Log Burner, molded skirting boards and door architrave's, pine panel internal doors, and Oak wood block floors laid circa 2002. The generous living space comprises an entrance hall, a living room (19'6 x 11'0), a kitchen with integrated appliances, a formal dining room (14'2 x 11'7), an inner hall with downstairs cloak room, a spindle staircase and outer doors which open onto the side and rear gardens, and a relaxing lounge (15'8 x 11'7). On the primary first floor there are three double sized bedrooms and two bathrooms, one being ensuite. Whilst a separate staircase leads from the living room to a fourth bedroom, located over the garage, limited to a ceiling height of (6'5).
