Our clients have held back listing on booking.com/Airbnb as the cottages were under refurbishment and they were considering placing them on the market. This would have caused issues to transfer bookings from Airbnb based on their experience of selling holiday lets in the past. There is therefore untapped potential for any new owner to increase the revenues further. They have another cottage within close proximity where the split is circa 70% Airbnb, 20% online booking agent and 10% direct/website.
