OVERSTRAND

Overstrand is an attractive East Norfolk coastal village, situated on a cliff-top overlooking fine sandy beaches. Visitors come to Overstrand to take in the fine coastal views of the sea and beach below, including a lovely cliff-top path taking you right into Cromer, about one and a half miles away. The village grew up around its fishing industry and a few fishing boats are still based here. The beauty of Overstrand did not go unnoticed however and many rich and famous people built holiday homes here, leading to its nickname as "the village of millionaires". As a result the village contains some fine and unusual properties, dating from several periods. Overstrand has a village shop, post office a couple of pubs and clifftop cafe. It makes a fabulous base for your holiday, or a day trip to relax on the beach, enjoy some walking or mountain bike in the surrounding woodland. Winston Churchill and Albert Einstein were regular visitors to the village!
