EAST RUNTON

East Runton is a small village in Norfolk, England situated close to the North Sea. It was once a traditional fishing village outside Cromer and is now a vibrant village popular with camping and caravan holidays and summer seaside trips.

In East Runton you really do get the best of both worlds, The village is served with a convenience shop (East Runton Stores), and two public houses, but you do also have the village of West Runton and seaside town of Sheringham one side and Cromer on the other giving you plenty of choice.

There are two public houses in East Runton: the Fishing Boat and the recently refurbished White Horse. The Fishing Boat is the older of the inns, and is on the tithe map of 1840 when it was simply called the 'Boat Inn'. There is also a social club 'Harry's Bar' (Formerly Bernies) due to open in approximately March 2025.

There is great access to the beach from East Runton and is popular with surfers and dog walkers.
