Glengarry, School Lane, East Keal

A Grade II listed three-bedroom farm cottage, believed to originate in the 16th Century with extension dated 1725, offers considerable terraced garden space to the rear.

This combination of a historic property and sizeable plot makes Glengarry a particular rarity, with the comforts of modern living combined with historic features and excellent outdoor spaces. The property is in need of a gentle scheme of refurbishment.

OUTSIDE

The rear garden extends uphill with terraced levels leading well beyond the back of the property. With brick edge planter spaces and various gravel paths running up and down this extensive rear garden the potential is there for a beautiful outdoor haven to be established by a keen gardener. A wide range of mature trees currently populate this space.

To the rear stands timber summerhouse / studio and the garden also boasts a pond.

Potential purchasers should be aware a covenant will be in place to prevent redevelopment of the garden.
