

The Manor House, High Street
Normanton

129 High Street
Normanton, WF6 1NW

A charming and beautifully finished grade II listed old stone house dating back to 1629 and previously built as a farmhouse, the property is set in a secluded location within a conservation area of Normanton, yet provides fantastic access to the national motorway network such as the M62, as well as a broad range of shops, schools and railway station.

A substantial grade II listed detached stone built house dating back to 1629 and previously built as a farmhouse, set in wonderful private gardens and having an extensive annex building which could be used for a variety of uses such as granny flat, workspace or office, set in this secluded position very close to the town centre.

With a gas fired central heating system and predominantly double glazed windows, this charming and beautifully finished old stone house has a formal front entrance door that leads into a central reception hall with a hand made oak staircase and guest cloakroom off to the side. The principal living room is of fine proportions overlooking the garden and having a feature fireplace. There is a separate sitting room in addition with feature heavy wooden beamed ceiling creating a lovely atmospheric room. The dining kitchen is fitted to an amazing standard with a brilliant range of units with granite worktops and a matching island unit. The kitchen has a good range of integrated appliances, as well as a characterful window seat, helping create the practical hub of this lovely family home. To the first floor there are three double bedrooms, plus a further small single bedroom, all served by a particularly well appointed family bathroom. Off the third bedroom there is a mezzanine study area. Outside, the property is approached via a broad block paved driveway, which is owned by The Manor House and provides access to a couple of neighbouring properties. Immediately opposite the house there is a private parking area, as well as an extensive annex building, as well as two sheds and a cabin. The gardens surround the house with an expansive patio sitting area to the rear, ideal for outside entertaining surrounded by a lawn and ornamental pond. A further decked sitting area flows round the side of the house to the front where there is a further enclosed garden with useful storage sheds. The annex benefits from its own electrical supply.

The property is situated within very easy reach of the broad range of shops, schools and recreational facilities offered by Normanton town centre. Normanton itself has its own railway station and has excellent access to the national motorway network.
