GUIDE PRICE
£750,000

This substantial and very handsome Edwardian family residence is situated on the premier road in Shirehampton and is offered to the market in immaculate condition, with its very stylish contemporary finish complementing the wide range of retained original period features perfectly.

The property was designed by Bristol Architect Frederick Bligh Bond who also undertook a number of domestic commissions for the King's Weston estate of Philip Napier Miles, including a number of substantial houses in Shirehampton, the Miles Arms public house in Avonmouth, the now-demolished King's Weston estate office and the public hall in Shirehampton.

Summary

Set in the forever sought after tree lined Station Road the property is set over three floors. When stepping over the threshold you are immediately greeted by its character and charm. The oversized front door has stained glass inserts & there are detailed soffit boards on the gable roof and still has the original fireplaces throughout. The spacious entrance lobby opens to a central hallway to the dining room which has a boxed bay with three sash windows, a high ceiling with cornice and an ornate rose, and a feature fireplace.

The back reception room is used as a Sitting Room and like the dining room has good height to the ceiling & an original feature fireplace and exposed floorboards with double doors leading into the rear garden. Over time, the house has been extended at the rear where you will find the stylish and sociable kitchen/breakfast room leading the sun room with bi-fold doors leading into the sunny rear garden where the winding path will take you to the garage/office.

The first floor has generous landing areas, 3 double bedrooms, a dressing room leading onto the balcony, a four piece bathroom and stairs rising to the third floor where you will find the master bedroom with En-Suite. Immaculately presented throughout, the property has been lovingly restored with a contemporary period finish and is notable for its excellent lateral space and immense kerb appeal.
