Whitehall, SW1A

£1,846 Per week

Situated in the historic Whitehall Court building, this large three bedroom, four bathroom apartment is available and ready for immediate occupation. The property spans over 200 sq meters with double height ceilings topped in original cornicing. With delicately maintained gardens to the rear of the property as well and 24 hour concierge, the property offers tranquility in Central London.

Built in 1884 the building is steeped in rich history and was the home to the British secret intelligence service (MI6) up until 1918. It's been home to many incredibly influential residents, including Lord Kitchener and William Gladstone. It's historic significance and architectural beauty bring it into our modern world, the James Bond film "No time to die" features James Bond pulling up in his Aston Martin just outside!

From the beautifully ornate communal hallway, you enter the apartment into a spacious entrance. Ample space for coats, boots and umbrellas welcome you and a large wall mirror lends to the spacious feel. From there the hall opens up and the scale of the property presents itself, augmented by the double-height ceiling. A impressive solid wood parquet floor sprawls throughout the living areas and ties the rooms together creating a sense of space. Each bedroom feels luxuriously large with built-in storage and en suite bathrooms, although the principal truly exudes peace with glass doors opening onto a balcony. The kitchen is fully equipped for the summer dinner-party, quiet morning breakfast and everything in-between with its large gas range and breakfast bar.

Whitehall Court is ideally located within a short distance form London's famous landmarks such as, Horse Guards, Houses of Parliament and Trafalgar Square. Embankment and Charing Cross stations are within 0.3 Miles.
