Situated in grounds of approximately 1.75 acres, Magnolia House is an imposing period home which is believed to date back to the 1700's. Approached via a sweeping driveway the family home boasts many original period features to include exposed stone walls, timber beams and an inglenook fireplace.

Ground Floor

Entering the property through the grand, double oak doors you arrive in the entrance hall with a beamed vaulted ceiling and striking exposed stone wall. There is a downstairs cloakroom and from the entrance hall, doors lead off to the ground floor accommodation and inner hallway.

The dining room with oak parquet flooring can be found at the rear of the home and is flooded with natural light from the window overlooking the rear garden and two sets of doors which take you outside. Internal double doors lead into the sitting room. The original inglenook fireplace and woodburning stove creates a stunning focal point to this warm family space. The room is completed by two picture windows which overlook the south facing garden. A study can be found to the left of the entrance hall, providing a private area for work and relaxation.

Leading through the entrance hall and via an inner hallway you arrive at the kitchen/breakfast room. The traditional kitchen houses an Aga and gives the hub of the house a warm, cosy feel, which extends to the snug, situated off this room. The large room with checkerboard vinyl flooring boasts more wonderful period features to include timber beams and exposed stone walls. Within the dining area there is space for a large table for entertaining and additional storage space. A window overlooks the front of the home while a stable door takes you outside.
