Stockton House is on the end of the beautifully painted row of apartments, built in 2011 by Shanley Homes. The attractive facade, with its pastel colours, is reminiscent of a London Mews.

Located on the top floor, the apartment has a bright, open plan living/kitchen/dining area and the high ceilings give it a great sense of space and the room is filled with natural daylight complementing the neutral decor and modern furnishings. This sociable layout provides space for entertaining family or friends and the modern kitchen has integrated appliances and ample storage.

There are two double bedrooms, both of which have fitted wardrobes, making it simple to keep things neat and tidy. The bathroom has neutral tiling to the walls and floors and a modern suite with a shower over the bath.

If you commute to London on a regular basis, this property is literally a stone's throw away from Reigate train station on Holmesdale Road and you can be in London in under 40 minutes. If you drive to and from work, there is a useful, under cover, allocated parking space so you can jump in the car, and with easy access to Reigate Hill, you can be on the M25 in less than 10 minutes.
