The Manor is a magnificent Grade II period country house located in the centre of the village of Hinton Blewett, in Somerset's sought after Chew Valley region. Set within fine landscaped gardens, this exceptional home dating from the late 1700s, exhibits fine Georgian architecture and retains a wealth of classical period features evident throughout. The property was further enhanced in the late 1800s and now provides over 9,000 sq.ft of well-appointed accommodation across three floors. This luxurious family home offers every amenity and the opportunity to entertain in real style.

The Manor is approached via automated gates and a driveway that runs through the grounds beneath a canopy of mature trees, culminating in a beautiful gravelled parking area to the East. An impressive front door opens to an elegant entrance hall with its original natural stone floor and doors that open to a palatial drawing room and a fabulous contemporary walnut bespoke kitchen. With high ceilings framed with period cornicing, beautiful aged oak floors, and perfectly proportioned shuttered sash windows, these are truly majestic spaces with extraordinary charm. The kitchen itself is lavishly equipped with an electric 5 oven aga, hotplates and additional induction hob. The dishwasher and fridge freezer are Fisher & Paykel and a Franke sink with quooker tap for boiling and sparkling water, is joined by black granite work surfaces. Pocket doors allow the prep area of the kitchen to be hidden from view, if required. Five lamps illuminate a generous breakfast bar that comes with a fine marble work top. An original Bath stone fireplace warms a comfortable seating area and glazed doors open to the formal gardens beyond. The drawing room is no less impressive, featuring an original period fireplace and offering the perfect space to entertain with the kitchen adjacent.

Beyond the main reception hall are three further reception rooms each exuding its own, individual charm. The morning room is light and airy and is furnished with a painted timber floor and glazed doors that open to the garden and terrace. The dining room impresses with a wood burner that sits beneath a Bath stone surround also featuring doors to the garden and water fountain beyond. The sitting room at the far end of the house is a cosy retreat and is warmed by another wood burning stove that sits in an attractive original red brick fireplace. Also on the ground floor and off an inner hall is a remarkable scullery with an original bread oven, flagstone floor and a door that opens to a private terrace. Whilst retaining the charm of the original room, it is well equipped as a second kitchen with a washing machine, dishwasher, and stone sink. Two original water pumps (one on the terrace and one inside) hint at the rich history of the house. Completing the ground floor is a cold store pantry and two cloakrooms.

Of particular note is the cellar accessed via a staircase from the hall where part of it has been transformed into a cinema room with an Epsom cinema system and raised soundproofed floor. The original wine vaults are still in evidence next door and installed within the last two years, the cellar also houses two new boilers that supply a flexible, heat efficient, three zoned gas central heating system that features new, period style, thermostatic cast iron column radiators. There is external access via separate steps to the garden.

From the reception hall, a beautiful staircase rises to the first-floor landing area with a charming period fireplace and access to a palatial principal bedroom suite. Along with the magnificent bedroom there is a very generous dressing room which could serve as a seventh bedroom and a beautifully appointed bathroom. The bedroom is large enough to offer a seating area that makes the most of an original fireplace and three perfectly proportioned Georgian sash windows offer stunning views of the gardens and beyond. The bathroom is majestic and features a stand-alone bathtub, oversized shower, twin sinks crafted within a Corian vanity unit and another beautiful fireplace. The dressing room offers a wide array of wardrobe space. Each of these rooms feature fine timber floors that lend them real character.

A further flight of stairs rises to a second floor with another pretty bedroom that also enjoys an en-suite bathroom. An old French bathtub complements a large shower (with integrated showerhead) and underfloor heating warms the room. The views of the surrounding countryside are particularly beautiful.

From the main landing area, a corridor runs the length of this wing of the house with access to four further bedrooms. There is also a wet room (styled in Mandarin stone) and a further substantial sized bathroom at one end. All these rooms are elegantly furnished and variously feature original fireplaces, period sash windows, and wash basins. The bathrooms are furnished with high quality fixtures and fittings, heated chrome towel rails and are contemporary in style with natural stone finishes. All these rooms enjoy sensational views of the gardens and the countryside beyond.

Outside

An original stone wall extends around the perimeter of the property affording a high degree of privacy and the gardens are simply beautiful. Adjacent to the main house is a formal garden, perfectly proportioned and enhanced by clipped box hedging that frame mature bay trees in their beds. A stunning pond offers a focal point and is embellished with a pretty fountain at its centre. Sitting alongside is a seasoned stone terrace sheltered by a charming summer house, formerly used as an art studio, that offers respite in the heat. Beyond the formal gardens, perfectly manicured lawns sweep away to the near boundary of mature trees and shrubs that include some aged oaks, Mongolian pines and a variety of Yew. Further afield is a magnificent Victorian walled garden that has been home to a nursery that supplied the village with fresh food during the war. An enormous "potting shed" runs much of the length of the North Wall. This garden leads to a paddock that could be employed for a variety of uses. To the South side of the house, the prettiest of gardens is adorned with another seasoned stone terrace and a period fountain set within more beautiful box hedging.

Outbuildings

Alongside the gardens are a variety of outbuildings that include storerooms, a woodshed and machinery shed. The original two storey coach house is perfectly suited for use as a double garage, with the former stables, featuring the original cobbled brick floor, currently in use as home offices. These could easily be converted back to provide stabling if required, with the original stable doors and hay bars having been retained by the current owner.

The property is fitted with an extensive security system that includes separate alarms for both the Manor and The Coach House with an eight camera CCTV system in place around the house and outbuildings.
