Lindisfarne

Lindisfarne is a substantial Edwardian former Rectory offering a rare combination of period character and considered modern updates. With five bedrooms, high ceilings, and generous proportions throughout, the property is designed for both comfortable living and easy entertaining.

Built in 1906, there are architectural details including a distinctive round bay window and turret-style tower. Inside, this well maintained house retains its charm with decorative plasterwork, fireplaces, and large windows, while key spaces like the kitchen and utility room have been thoughtfully renovated with a clean, contemporary finish.

There is a spacious reception hall and drawing room, a sleek modern kitchen with underfloor heating with a full array of fitted appliances and extensive units as well as a central island for dining and doors opening to the terrace. There is a utility room, wine cellar, dining room and family room. Upstairs, five spacious bedrooms include a large principal suite with bathroom, four further bedrooms and two bathrooms.

Outside

From Peppard Lane, large timber gates give access to the small cul-de-sac of just 3 properties. Parkland fencing and electric gates lead to the private driveway for Lindisfarne and up to the double garage with electric doors. The mature garden features established borders, two fine pine trees and bushes and shrubs offering both privacy and a natural outlook. There are various areas of paved terraces from which to enjoy the summer sunshine. Lindisfarne sits in an exceptionally quiet location behind secure electric gates, with the wider community providing peace of mind in a well-maintained environment. This is a distinctive home with genuine character, in a setting that feels private without being isolated.
