A TASTEFULLY RENOVATED DETACHED
COTSWOLD STONE COTTAGE WITH GARDEN,
PARKING, AND COMMANDING VIEWS
TOWARDS SELSLEY COMMON

The property

Located in an elevated setting between Townsend and Randwick, with far-reaching views across Ebley towards Selsley Common, this attractive Cotswold stone cottage has undergone an extensive renovation. This beautifully transformed home, set on a 0.165-acre plot, now benefits from new flush casement windows and doors throughout from Residence (A rated), a new open porch, re-pointing, two new dormer windows, and a reconfigured ground floor. All tiles and engineered oak flooring are from Beswick Stone, and the stylish new kitchen is from Howdens with a quartz worktop and walk-in larder, opening into the dining room to create a light-filled space perfect for modern living. This area, with its partly vaulted ceiling, features dual aspect windows and an attractive Cotswold stone fireplace. The property is fully re-wired and re-plumbed, with a boiler installed a few years ago. All interior lights are from Pooky, adding to the quality finish.

The centrally positioned front door opens into a welcoming hallway with engineered oak flooring. Here you'll find the staircase, a new shower room, and a utility room with quarry-tiled flooring and a side door to the patio. The traditional sitting room at the front enjoys a cosy Cotswold stone fireplace and pleasant outlook, while the kitchen/dining room sits opposite across the hall.

Upstairs, the first floor continues with wooden floorboards. The principal double bedroom enjoys views, a feature fireplace, and a built-in wardrobe. A single bedroom or home office shares the front aspect, while the stylish family bathroom sits at the rear. On the top floor, two double bedrooms enjoy dual aspects and newly added dormer windows, bringing in more light and space. A cloakroom completes the top floor.

Subject to planning permission, there is space for a side extension.
