With the home dating from 1841, there are period features aplenty, noticeable before you even walk inside it's beautiful sandstone façade, thanks to it's traditional cast iron butler door bell pull. Elaborate geometric tiled floors greet you and lead you to the main apartments.

The main reception, an impressive drawing room, comes complete with ornate cornicing and architrave, solid oak flooring, and cast iron radiators, with the focal point being a grand fireplace with wood burning stove. French doors open to an expansive Southwest facing terrace and the manicured lawns beyond.

There is a fantastic country kitchen which is the perfect blend of traditional styling and modern convenience. Replete with Rangemaster Gas range, undermounted Belfast sink, American style Fridge Freezer, separate wine fridge, integrated coffee machine, and microwave. Off the kitchen is a thoughtfully equipped utility room with full laundry facilities and additional storage.

Additionally, the West wing of the ground floor contains a breakfast room with traditional fireplace, study, formal dining room and large bay windowed family room, again overlooking the private gardens. Above the dining room and accessed via a wrought iron spiral staircase is a self-contained guest bedroom complete with en-suite facilities.

The property's first floor accommodation comprises 4 double bedrooms, family bathroom and an additional shower room. The Master is another impressively appointed room with dual aspect boxed bay windows and a range of bespoke fitted wardrobes. The main bathroom, another grand affair, with 4 piece suite, free standing roll top bath, boxed bay window seating, wood panelling, and tiled floor.

The East wing of the home has had a number of different uses through the years including a veterinary surgery and children's nursery. It's currently an enormous studio space which could have any number of uses, and separate shower room. This part of the property has planning permission in place for conversion to form an additional lounge and games room as well as 2 further double bedrooms, both with ensuite facilities and dressing rooms.

Set within mature grounds laid mainly to lawn, there is a large stone chipped parking area, fully equipped children's play area, south west facing terrace and the afore mentioned lawns, surrounded by mature trees and shrubbery.

The property occupies a secluded rural location yet is located on the periphery of Cumbernauld and benefits from all of the amenities available on its doorstep, including shops, restaurants, leisure facilities, parks, and highly rated schools. The property is within walking distance of Greenfaulds station and is also close to the M80 linking it to central Scotland's extensive roads network.
