Radnor House is a distinctive and much loved family home, designed and built by renowned local architect Samuel Pountney Smith. Designed to look like one large house pairing with its neighbouring Kinnersley/Wilderhope House. This light, bright and airy property boasts generous and practical family accommodation arranged over four levels with 12ft ceilings on the ground and first floors. The property benefits from 5e Network cables to all rooms and a recently updated multi-zoned heating system.

The property is well placed in one of Shrewsbury's most esteemed residential areas, renowned for its architectural significance, within close proximity to the town centre with its many fashionable bars and restaurants, Theatre Severn, Quarry Park and Dingle gardens and the Shrewsbury railway station. The property is also well placed close to popular schools in both the state and private sector and convenient transport links. The whole making the location desirable for families and professionals alike.

GARDENS

The property is approached via an electric gateway with pillared entrance over a long and generous forecourt providing ample parking and turning space for guest cars and serving the garage. The carefully curated garden is well screened to provide a private retreat. A paved pathway and terrace serves a central lawn with rustic Pergola providing an ideal entertaining and Alfresco dining area etc.
