A set of steps up to a further tiered hard-landscaped garden area well-stocked with established planting which leads to a further level area laid to decorative gravel. There is a timber gate leading to a hidden piece of garden, which is surprisingly large. This has been laid to timber decking which needs replacing. This area lends itself to a fabulous viewing spot and offers a very good sea view but could also be further developed as additional parking or even a potential car port/garage (subject to planning). Along the side of the property there is an established hedgerow and a level area of lawn enclosed by timber fencing, with a gate opening onto the side road and to the parking area where there is a hard-standing with a timber shed and 2 private off-road parking spaces with potential 3rd space for a small car/trailer or small boat. Along the rear of the house there is a pathway with steps leading down to a tiled patio with a stainless-steel-&-glass balcony and bench seating. This patio enjoys most of the day's sunshine and is a fabulous spot for taking in a splendid sea view and the south-west coastal path. Small outhouse storage area. Cold water tap.
