Rothbury

Known as the 'Capital of Coquetdale' Rothbury is a small Northumbrian market town on the River Coquet equidistant from the larger towns of Alnwick and Morpeth. The town still reflects prosperity of the late Victorian era, brought about then by the arrival of the railway, (now gone), and the influence of Lord Armstrong and Craggside. Facilities include First and Middle Schools, a library, art centre, a number of public houses/restaurants, golf club, professional and medical services/community hospital and a full range of local shops. A recently opened Shell petrol forecourt in Thropton is but a mile away.

High Norland

Occupying a plot approximately a quarter of an acre and with the accommodation extending to over 4,000 square feet, High Norland has undergone a full restoration programme, including newly installed kitchen and utility room, new bathrooms, freshly plastered walls with decoations in white throughout. The sellers attention to insulating the property has made High Norland very energy efficient.

Externally

Access is from Hillside West, through wrought iron gates to a driveway and to the double garage. Gardens to the rear which are predominantly lawned with Summerhouse and storage shed.
