A rare and unique extended bungalow in a prime Meir Heath location!

In my experience, many bungalows are often criticised for being too small. There is no such problem with this bungalow in Golborn Avenue thanks to the impressive extension at the rear providing flexible accommodation.

The property currently provides a cosy living room, one regular sized bedroom and one huge split-level bedroom offering plenty of dressing space. There is also a practical shower room and a functional kitchen with space to dine at the back. The previous occupant previously operated the extension as a full width living room and this could easily be reverted at little expense and effort.

At the front of the property, you are greeted by the stylish block paved driveway as well as the low maintenance front garden.

The south-east facing rear garden is simply stunning and the raised decking area provides extensive rural views. There is also a useful garage providing ample storage.

Bungalows like this really don't come about too often!
