The annexe has it's own entrance porch, living/dining/kitchen, a double bedroom with ensuite shower room. Outside and occupying a plot of around 1.4 acres, there are extensive gardens, woodland and stone flagged seating areas surrounding the property with the historic mill stream flowing through its centre with the historic mill stream flowing through its centre and offering HYDRO POWER potential. There is a stone built double garage with WC and good sized loft. The central courtyard provides off road parking for several vehicles. Viewing Highly Recommended. Virtual Tour Available. Offered with No Upward Chain.

The Village of Bonsall

The property is located in the village of Bonsall, a quintessential Derbyshire village filled with character stone properties and with a strong sense of community. Bonsall has a tearoom and delicatessen, a good primary school, two pubs and superb local walks with stunning views. There is a park with children's play area close by. The A6 and local railway station are a short drive away, and there are also bus services through the village. Nearby Matlock has all the amenities you would expect from a market town, and within a short drive are the attractions of the Derbyshire Dales and Peak District.

A Brief History

Clatterway is thought to have been named after the clatter of lead miners' clogs, although another version believes it derives from the clatter of spinning wheels. The cottage industry of frame knitting grew in the village as lead mining declined and in the mid-19th century it was one of the largest centres of the industry with over 140 frames. Bonsall has a significant place in this country's industrial history: Richard Arkwright used Bonsall Brook to power his mills and forge the factory system that still impacts on our lives today. This is the site where Bonsall Brook was channelled into a "Mill Race" which powered a former water mill on this site during the 18th century. A mill race, millrace or millrun is the current of water that turns a water wheel, or the channel conducting water to or from a water wheel.
