Location

Nancemellin is a small, quiet hamlet on the outskirts of Camborne in West Cornwall. Tucked away in the countryside, it's surrounded by lush greenery, narrow lanes, and traces of Cornwall's mining heritage. The area is peaceful and rural, with a scattering of traditional cottages and farms, offering a slower pace of life. While close to the conveniences of Camborne town, Nancemellin feels distinctly removed from busier areas, making it a spot appreciated for its tranquillity and connection to nature. The beaches at Godrevy and Gwithian are only a short drive away or a 30 minute off road walk to Gwithain. The A30 is very accessible which gives access to all the major market towns and coastal villages of Cornwall. There is also an excellent primary school, 2 miles walk away in Kehelland.

Parking

There is parking for a number of cars within the gravelled drive. To the further side of the property is another parking space.

Outside

To the rear of the home is a walled garden creating a very sheltered seating or Alfresco dining area. To the side of the this area of garden is a stone built barn creating a perfect storage area and also offers the potential for conversion into an annexe subject to the relevant permissions being granted. To the side and rear of the gravelled parking area is a further single storey barn creating an ideal storage area for machinery or beach equipment. This barn again subject to the relevant consents could create the ideal space for a dependent relative, independent teenager or be used as a let. There is also a workshop area. The garden extends along, and is laid to lawn and enclosed by wooden sleepers with a gravelled bed above. The garden is enclosed and to the rear is a pen for pigs. From the graveled area of parking there are steps rising up onto the raised lawn garden which again provides a high degree of privacy and could create the ideal area for a hot tub. The land extends to to the side where the land has been left as a large wild meadow creating the ideal habitat for wildlife.
