We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

Having been improved to a very high standard by the current vendors the house benefits from a ground floor re-fitted kitchen/breakfast room with French doors opening to the rear gardens, a ground floor fourth bedroom and a refitted cloakroom. The first floor has a stunning 'L' shaped lounge/dining room which is usually two separate rooms so is a wonderful double aspect room with double French doors opening to a balcony with views over the rear garden and towards the lock. The first floor is completed by a bedroom and refitted bathroom. The second floor has two double bedrooms and a wonderful refitted En-Suite bathroom with jacuzzi bath.
