We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

One of the finest houses we have seen within the North Langney area. This immaculately presented detached home has four/five bedrooms and two reception rooms. The property also includes a newly fitted cloakroom, kitchen/breakfast room and bathroom/WC. With En Suite facilities that further compliment this most impressive home. There are attractive lawned gardens which also has a sizeable patio area. The attached garage is also approached via a generous driveway. Further benefits include a new gas combination boiler and fuse board. Stone Cross Village, nearby schools and Langney shopping centre are all within the surrounding area. Eastbourne Town centre is approximately three miles distant. A viewing comes highly recommended.
