We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

A truly exceptional period home in Old Town. Undoubtedly one of the finest period properties we've had the pleasure to present, this stunning end of terrace residence in Old Town has undergone an extensive and beautifully executed renovation. Offering five generously sized bedrooms, the home is distinguished by its spacious and elegant living areas. The interior features a welcoming sitting room and a formal dining room, both enhanced by striking feature fireplaces and exquisite Herringbone engineered oak flooring that flows seamlessly throughout. The contemporary kitchen/breakfast room has been thoughtfully refitted with sleek Quartz worktops and high end integrated appliances, opening directly onto a private Indian sandstone patio garden perfect for outdoor entertaining. The luxurious 'Heritage' bathroom suite, complete with bath, shower and WC is a standout feature. Additional highlights include a stylish new ground floor cloakroom, a practical laundry room and En Suite facilities. The home also benefits from replacement sash double glazing and elegant plantation shutters adding both charm and efficiency. Ideally located near the shops at Albert Parade and with convenient bus links into town, the property is also within walking distance of Motcombe Park, Old Town recreation ground and a range of schools catering to all age groups. Eastbourne town centre is approximately 1.5 miles away.
