We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

31 Elm Grove, Eastbourne, BN22 9NN

Favourably located within Hampden Park Village, this deceptively spacious chalet style property is detached and provides versatile accommodation comprising of three/four double bedrooms and two/three receptions. The property benefits from a generous entrance vestibule with ample storage, and this is a theme that continues throughout the property. There is a double aspect kitchen/breakfast room where most appliances are included and in addition to the ground floor bathroom/wc there is a first floor shower room/wc and the principle first floor bedroom boasts a Juliette balcony. Set amongst mature lawned gardens, the rear also includes a sizeable Indian sandstone patio area and access to the single garage and hardstanding. Vehicular access to which is gained via Edgeland Terrace at the rear. The Village high street shops and mainline railway station are just yards away whilst local schools, the picturesque Hampden Park and David Lloyd fitness centre are all closeby.
