Description

Welcome to the Loose Valley dream! Wonderful opportunity to purchase a charming semi-detached late Victorian ragstone cottage with stunning views over the rolling landscape of the Loose Valley conservation area. Close to the famous ragstone viaduct. Indeed, the fenestration has been placed purposefully to gain the full benefit of the local vistas. The cottage is bursting with charm and character from the sash windows to the oak flooring and timber balustrade with period fireplaces with the addition of luxuriously appointed contemporary kitchen, bathroom, en-suite and cloakroom. The cottage gardens are a joy and must be viewed to be appreciated. It is easy to envisage a lazy afternoon in the garden having a BBQ with friends or family. Useful home office, garage and parking for five vehicles, approached by the charming Salts Lane.

Location

The adjacent Loose viaduct was built in 1830 in dressed ragstone and forms a delightful back drop to this quintessentially Kentish village. Steeped in history, gaining prominence in 18th century as a centre for fulling and paper mills. The stream itself a tributary of the River Medway is classified by the environment agency as very good with regular sightings of Kingfishers and Brown Trout. Today Loose Valley has an active conservation society and has a charming collection of period properties and the Chequers Pub flanks the fast flowing steam and is within three minutes walk of the property. There is a highly regarded local infant and junior school, Sutton Valence Private School is also only 10 minutes drive away which caters for Primary and Secondary school ages, active scout troop, a selection of shops on the Loose road, a doctors surgery and chemist. The county town is some 2 and a half miles distance and has wider selection of amenities and schools for older children and is regularly accessed by bus services. Marden station is 5 miles south of the property (15 minutes drive and is on the London Bridge line, approx 45 mins).
