Tresithney House Trevince Parc

Carharrack, Redruth, TR16 5QX

Guide price £525,000

Tucked away down a small tarmac lane, Tresithney House is a very well presented modern home constructed by WJ Ladd in 1985. The property has four bedrooms together with a family bathroom to the first floor. To the ground floor there is a good hallway, a cloakroom, a substantial lounge with an inset multi fuel stove and there is a fitted kitchen with open access to a dining room. Heating is via a modern Grant oil boiler and the double glazing is hardwood. One of the many features of this home is the lovely rear garden which over the years has been cultivated and now produces a wealth of colour together with Palm trees, patios and a substantial greenhouse and outbuilding. It is all well enclosed and quite private. To the front a driveway leads to a parking/turning area for several vehicles. The garage is double length currently being used as a workshop and to the side there is a useful car port. There is also a small store and a laundry room. Carharrack village is within a few hundred yards walk and offers shopping facilities and bus services to Redruth and Truro.
