Tre-Newydd comprises of an individually designed and constructed detached family house dating from the 1960's, originally built by a well-renowned local property developer for himself and his family ensuring the house was constructed to a good standard, also securing one of the most attractive locations within the popular village of Shirenewton.

The village itself is well respected, located in a pretty part of Monmouthshire and offering easy access to the nearby town of Chepstow with good road links via the M48 motorway to the M4, Cardiff, Bristol, local rail and road links.

The current vendors have carried out a thorough renovation of this property, enhancing its many features such as its large gardens and attractively incorporating the contemporary fitments and features throughout. The large hallway gives access to the drawing room, as well as study and kitchen with adjoining family room, the kitchen enjoying an extensive range of good quality appliances. A glazed hallway gives access to the formal dining room. To the first floor an impressive principal bedroom has its own en-suite shower room, with an additional guest bedroom with en-suite shower room, two further bedrooms and well-appointed family bathroom. The house also stands within the aforementioned attractive gardens and grounds with a large double garage.
