

DIRECTIONS

From our Chepstow office proceed up Welsh Street to the racecourse roundabout. Take the second exit onto the Trelleck Road passing through the villages of Itton and Devauden. After driving through Devauden continue for approximately two miles taking the turning on your left to Llansoy and Raglan. Follow this road without deviation into the village of Llansoy where you will see on your left-hand side Church Lane with number 1 being immediately on your left. Church Lane comprises a spacious detached family house dating from the 1970's which has undergone considerable extension and improvement over the years, to provide the spacious and comfortable accommodation now offered.

The property enjoys a central village location in corner gardens with attractive views across the rolling Monmouthshire countryside.

The flexible accommodation would suit both family use or multi-generational use depending on requirements currently offering; reception hall, spacious drawing room, large dining room with updated kitchen, study, family room, utility room, shower room and ground floor cloakroom and to the first floor, impressive principal bedroom with en-suite shower room, five further bedrooms (bedroom two also having the benefit of en-suite facilities), along with family bathroom and family shower room. The flexibility of the property would suggest that one could easily utilise several of the bedrooms as playroom and second office depending on requirements and needs.

The village of Llansoy is extremely well located, nestled between the historic towns of Chepstow and Monmouth and also conveniently close to the nearby village of Raglan with good local shopping facilities. Road networks are at hand with the A449 junction at Raglan giving access to Monmouth, Newport and the M4 and M48 motorway at Chepstow, giving access to Bristol and London. This part of Monmouthshire is extremely attractive with many pleasant countryside pursuits and walks.
