Property Introduction

Built in 1900, this extended family home offers well presented accommodation arranged over three floors.

At ground floor level there is a generous living room, further reception room, super kitchen/diner and useful ground floor cloakroom. On the first floor there are three bedrooms and the spacious family bathroom. Stairs then lead up to a fantastic attic room gaining glorious open countryside views.

With off road parking for four cars, garage and generous rear garden with an outdoor shower, we highly recommend viewing this most spacious and well proportioned home.

Location

Carnhell Green is located approximately three miles south west of Camborne within the parish of Gwinear close to the town of Hayle and within close proximity to the main A30 trunk road. Within the village itself is a handy convenience store and, as you would expect from such a location, there are an abundance of countryside walks available on the doorstep. Both Camborne and Hayle boast a number of retail outlets and other facilities, such as mainline Railway Stations, with the former enjoying sandy beaches and especially popular for their surfing.

The adjoining villages of Portreath and Porthtowan take in the traditional Cornish scenery from the clifftop footpaths and showcasing reminders of our rich, industrial mining history and heritage with engine houses and workings located nearby. The cathedral city of Truro lies approximately eighteen miles distant being the main centre in Cornwall for business and commerce, and is renowned for its Georgian architecture, cobbled streets and its three-spired cathedral.
