Occupying one of Westbourne's most desirable residential roads, just moments from the heart of the village, this beautiful three-storey Victorian townhouse, dating from circa 1880, represents a rare opportunity to acquire a substantial four-bedroom period home. Many neighbouring Victorian properties have since been converted into apartments, making this one of the few original townhouses remaining as a single residence and a wonderful piece of Westbourne's architectural heritage. Cherished by the same family for over 30 years, the property retains a wealth of original character, including Victorian panelled doors, wood panelling, picture rails and numerous period features. The accommodation is complemented by modern comforts including double glazing and gas-fired central heating, creating a home that successfully combines period charm with the practicalities of modern living. The ground floor offers two generous reception rooms, with the principal lounge featuring a working fireplace and excellent natural light. The kitchen connects naturally with the living accommodation, while a ground-floor bathroom and separate utility room add everyday practicality. To the rear, a peaceful courtyard garden with direct access onto Seamoor Road provides a private outdoor retreat, ideal for relaxing, entertaining or family BBQs. The two upper floors provide four well-proportioned bedrooms, a second large bathroom, study area, airing cupboard, storage cupboard and a useful walk-in loft, offering excellent flexibility for family living, guests and working from home. A further major advantage is the private driveway providing parking for two cars, a particularly valuable feature in Westbourne where private parking is highly sought after. Homes of this size, character and position on R L Stevenson Avenue rarely come to market. Combining genuine Victorian heritage, generous
