Houses on Church Road rarely come on, and this much-loved four bedroom family home is no exception. It is coming to the market for the first time in four decades and is a perfect project for an upsizing family looking to move to or stay in the local area.

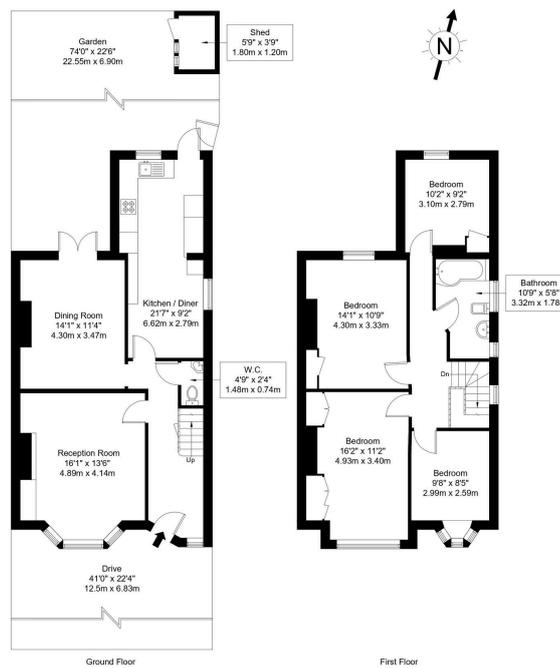

While the house now requires comprehensive modernisation throughout, it occupies a generous footprint, typical of homes of this era, with well-proportioned rooms and a layout that lends itself perfectly to reconfiguration and extension, subject to the usual consents.
