Location

Edinburgh's New Town is celebrated for its Georgian and neo-classical architecture, elegant cobble streets, and private gardens. A UNESCO World Heritage Site, it remains one of the city's most desirable residential areas, rich in art, history, and culture, and home to leading galleries and collections. At the heart of the festival capital, the New Town hosts renowned events such as the International Book Festival in Charlotte Square and the world-famous Hogmanay celebrations.

Residents enjoy exceptional shopping on Princes Street and George Street, luxury fashion at Harvey Nichols and Multrees Walk, and an array of boutiques and dining at the new St James Quarter. The area also offers a vibrant social scene, from chic cocktail bars to award-winning restaurants and cafés. Green spaces such as Princes Street Gardens and the Royal Botanic Garden are close at hand, while families benefit from excellent local schooling, including Broughton Primary, Drummond Community High, and a range of top independent schools.
