About The Property

Looking for a beautifully presented four-bedroom detached bungalow with generous gardens, plenty of parking and a superb open-plan kitchen/dining/family room in rural West Wales? With an air-source heat pump, solar panels, underfloor heating to part of the accommodation, an en-suite, a separate utility room, and no onward chain, this is a practical and versatile home with plenty to offer.

Set in the Carmarthenshire village of Drefach Velindre, this well-presented four-bedroom detached bungalow offers a particularly practical amount of accommodation, with approximately 136 sq m of internal space, generous gardens, plenty of private parking and a good mix of traditional and energy-efficient features. With an air-source heat pump, solar panels and underfloor heating to part of the accommodation, there has clearly been thought given to the way the property works as a modern home.

The bungalow sits within a good-sized plot, accessed via a quiet private lane, approached onto a private gravelled driveway with parking for up to four cars. The front is designed to be relatively straightforward to maintain, with gravelled areas, established planting and a covered entrance leading into the property.

Internally, the layout works particularly well, with a long hallway connecting the bedrooms and bathrooms to the main living areas. The entrance hallway gives access into the lounge, a comfortable reception room with plenty of space for seating and a gas fireplace set within a brick surround with a timber mantel, providing a natural focal point.

One of the main features of the bungalow is the kitchen/dining/family room. This is a substantial open-plan space that works well for everyday family life as well as having plenty of room for entertaining. The kitchen itself has a contemporary finish, with an extensive range of fitted units and work surfaces complemented by a central island with additional storage and seating.

The appliances include two built-in electric ovens, a gas hob with extractor above, built-in full-size fridge/freezer and integrated dishwasher. There is ample room alongside the kitchen for both a dining table and a comfortable seating area, creating a sociable room rather than simply a place for cooking. Bi-folding doors connect the room directly with the rear terrace and garden, while further windows bring in natural light. Underfloor heating is fitted within the kitchen/diner.

Alongside the kitchen is a separate utility room, another particularly useful part of the accommodation. This has further fitted storage and work surfaces, a sink, built-in under-counter fridge and separate built-in under-counter freezer, along with space for laundry appliances. The utility also benefits from underfloor heating and has a door providing direct access outside. A separate WC is positioned nearby.

There are four bedrooms arranged along the hallway. Bedroom one is a comfortable double bedroom with its own en-suite shower room, which includes a shower enclosure, WC and wash basin. The second bedroom and third bedroom are both good-sized double rooms, while bedroom four provides further flexibility for family, guests, hobbies or home-working.

The family bathroom is well equipped, with a freestanding bath, separate shower enclosure, WC and wash basin, together with useful fitted storage. Its soft green and neutral finish gives the room a fresh, simple feel.

Energy features include an air-source heat pump providing the heating, together with solar panels. Underfloor heating serves the kitchen/diner and utility room, while the remainder of the accommodation has radiators. The property is connected to mains water, mains electricity and mains drainage.

Overall, this is a versatile four-bedroom bungalow with more space than its frontage might initially suggest. The open-plan kitchen/dining/family room, separate lounge, utility, four bedrooms, three being double bedrooms, and two bathrooms give the accommodation plenty of flexibility, while the gardens, terrace and private parking add considerably to what is on offer. The solar panels and air-source heating are further useful features, and the property is being offered freehold with no onward chain. Viewing is recommended to appreciate both the amount of accommodation and the extent of the gardens.

Externally:
Outside is where this bungalow has another significant advantage. The gardens provide a considerable amount of usable space, with broad areas of lawn bordered by established hedging, shrubs and mature trees. Gravelled paths wind through the garden, with planted areas adding interest without making the grounds feel overly formal. The fencing closest to the bungalow is temporary and will be replaced with permanent fencing in the near future.

Immediately behind the bungalow is a paved terrace, creating a useful extension of the kitchen/dining area during the warmer months. Part of the terrace has a contemporary glass balustrade and provides space for outdoor dining and seating. From here, the garden continues away from the bungalow, with plenty of lawn for recreation, gardening or simply enjoying the outside space.

A garden shed provides useful storage, while the combination of mature boundaries and established planting gives the plot a settled feel. There is also plenty of room around the bungalow itself, rather than the property feeling closely hemmed in by its boundaries.

The driveway is another practical feature. With private off-road parking for up to four cars, there is space for several vehicles without taking over the main garden. The photographs also demonstrate that the parking area can accommodate a motorhome-sized vehicle.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:
The bungalow is situated in Velindre, a rural Carmarthenshire village within the wider Teifi Valley area of West Wales. The nearby towns of Llandysul and Newcastle Emlyn provide a broader range of everyday facilities, shops and services, while the location also gives access towards the west coast and the beaches and coastal villages around Cardigan Bay. It is a location that combines a village setting with reasonable access to the area's principal market towns.
