This impressive 1930s detached residence offers exceptionally versatile accommodation arranged over three and a half storeys, and an internal inspection is essential to fully appreciate both the scale of the property and the high standard of presentation throughout. Occupying an elevated position, many of the rooms enjoy far-reaching views towards the Weald, while a raised terrace further enhances the setting.

The property has been extensively refurbished to an exceptional standard, comparable to that of a high-end contemporary home, whilst carefully retaining a wealth of character features including panelled doors, bay windows, and an attractive fireplace with log burner.

The well-proportioned accommodation currently comprises two reception rooms, a study, utility room, and kitchen at entrance level, with stairs rising to the first floor where there are three generously sized bedrooms and a family bathroom. The principal bedroom further benefits from an en-suite shower room.

Of particular note is the lower ground floor, which can be separated from the main accommodation if required. This space provides excellent flexibility for family living and also offers the potential to create a substantial self-contained annex, complete with independent gas, electricity, and water supplies, together with separate rear access.

Further benefits include double glazing, gas-fired central heating via radiators, a private enclosed landscaped garden, an elevated terrace, and generous off-road parking to both the front and rear.

A truly unique home in a highly sought-after location, this exceptional property must be viewed to be fully appreciated.
