The Croft lies on a large, level plot, with a few neighbours, and views across open farmland and likely dates back to the 1950's, when it was traditionally built of cavity block and brick construction, part rendered. Since then, the accommodation has been significantly extended to the rear, forming a magnificent sitting room with a brick fireplace, housing a wood burner, and patio doors opening onto the paved terrace, with a lovely sunny aspect and rural views. The spacious and versatile accommodation is light and airy and would equally suit a family or a retired couple with grandchildren and visitors coming to stay. With four generous bedrooms, three of them are nicely separated from the principal bedroom, which also has a useful shower and washbasin to save any queuing in the morning before work or school!

Our clients have refurbished and redecorated the bungalow over the last six years and have installed a new kitchen in a light, classic style with plenty of work surface, storage and a dining bar for two people. Integral appliances include a Leisure Classic cooking range, comprising a five-ring gas hob, two ovens, a grill and warming oven with an extractor hood over; as well as integral dishwasher, fridge and freezer. Beside the kitchen, the dining room has space for a large dining table and has a sliding glazed door to the terrace, ideal for summer entertaining. The family bathroom has also been refurbished and is attractively tiled with a white suite including a vanity and cupboard unit, washbasin, bath and a separate shower cubicle with a power shower. From the central hallway there is also a cloakroom, with white suite, and a useful utility room with stainless steel sink and drainer with cupboards over, hanging space for drying clothes etc with a door to outside, and a small study, ideal for anyone working from home or the kid's homework.

Outside, The Croft is approached via wooden gates with the concrete drive passing the front lawn garden and leading to the parking, in front of the large double garage or workshop. This enviable space is perfect for anyone with classic cars, running a business from home, or simply storing life's gear. To the left of the garage there is parking for a large caravan, motorhome or trailer.

Beyond the garage, the large garden is principally laid to lawn with two impressive trees and turns through a right angle to the right with plenty of space for children to play or potential further landscaping. Towards the end, a small orchard of fruit trees has been planted and to one side, there is a cultivated area covered with a cage for soft fruits.

Services: mains water (metered), electricity and mains drainage. Private oil tank. Private propane gas bottles for the gas hob.
