Set on the edge of the small Mid Devon village of Nymet Rowland, close to Lapford with its railway station, bus links, pub, shop and primary school, 10 Higher Ley offers a rare opportunity to take a well built home and shape it into something truly special.

This is a classic ex local authority house, known for their solid construction and generous plots, and this one is no exception. While the property would benefit from updating, that's very much part of the appeal here. It offers a blank canvas with real scope to improve, extend and adapt as needs change over time.

The current layout is traditional, with a living room, separate dining room and kitchen on the ground floor, plus the kitchen and three bedrooms and a useful WC upstairs with the views getting even better from the first floor.

Outside is where this property really stands apart. The plot is larger than many, with both front and rear gardens offering space and flexibility. The rear garden faces south and enjoys an incredible panoramic outlook across open countryside, with Dartmoor visible on the horizon, a view that will be hard to tire of.

There is also ample off-road parking along with a detached garage, which, while in need of some repair, provides an established footprint that could be retained or repurposed.

Importantly, the size of the plot means there is genuine potential to extend to the side or rear, subject to the necessary consents, without compromising the garden space. That flexibility is increasingly hard to find.

Overall, this is not about what the house is now, but what it could become. A solid home, a standout plot and views that elevate it above the ordinary, this is a rare chance to create a long term home in a peaceful and well connected village setting.
