Welcome to Alderman Avenue, Barking – where family living meets commuter convenience and your property search ends with a smug little grin.

Just 0.6 miles from Barking Riverside railway station (yes, that's a very walkable "I'll grab a coffee on the way" distance) and moments from the A13, this is the kind of location that makes both school runs and city commutes feel suspiciously easy. Canary Wharf? City? Essex coast escape? All ticked.

The house itself? A well presented three-bedroom family home with space in all the right places. We're talking generous proportions, natural light that actually shows up, and a layout that understands modern life (WFH corner? Playroom? Formal dining? You choose your own adventure).

Outside, you've got off-street parking – because circling the block is so last season. Inside, it's bright, fresh and ready to go, with a welcoming feel from the moment you step through the door.

Families, take note: the property falls within catchment for several Ofsted Outstanding schools, including Thames View Infant School and Riverside School – meaning your postcode does some of the heavy lifting when it comes to education.

In short? It's the holy trinity of property:

This isn't just a house. It's your next chapter with better transport links and less parking stress.
