This is a proper Victorian family home - big rooms, high ceilings, loads of light and that lovely feeling of space.

You come in through the porch into a proper entrance hall, and straight away you get a sense of the size of the place. The bay-fronted living room is a great room, with a log burner for cosy evenings, and there's a separate dining room too, so you've got plenty of space for family life without everything having to happen in one room.

The kitchen sits to the rear, and downstairs there's also a cellar, which is brilliant for storage and all the extra bits you don't want cluttering up the house.

Upstairs, the first floor gives you four bedrooms and a family bathroom, then up again there are another two bedrooms and a second bathroom. So six bedrooms in total, spread properly over the house rather than squeezed in - it just feels airy, bright and really family-friendly.

Outside, you've got an enclosed garden with decking, plus a driveway with parking for multiple cars, which is always a massive bonus with a house this size.

And location-wise, you're walking distance into Marple village, so shops, cafés, pubs, transport and everyday bits are all easy. You get all the character and space of a proper Victorian home, but you're still right where you want to be.

In short: a big, bright Victorian semi with six bedrooms, two bathrooms, two reception rooms, a cellar, enclosed garden, loads of parking and Marple village on your doorstep. A proper family home with space in all the right places.
