A landmark five/six bedroom detached Edwardian residence commanding a spectacular coastal position with superb panoramic sea views over Mounts Bay situated in the highly sought after harbour village of Porthleven.

Occupying one of the areas most enviable settings this distinguished home effortlessly blends timeless architectural elegance with exceptional period character along with the refinements of modern living creating a residence of remarkable quality and prestige.

We are advised that this distinguished property was once the home of the grandparents of Wing Commander Guy Gibson, where he spent many of his childhood summers. Guy Gibson is renowned for leading the legendary 617 Squadron during the famous 1943 "Dambusters" raid, adding a unique and fascinating historical connection to this charming home.

The accommodation in brief provides beautifully proportioned accommodation arranged over three floors and comprises an elegant reception hall with a super turning staircase rising to the first floor, setting the tone for the character and quality found throughout this property.

The impressive sitting room has a generous bay window allowing in plenty of natural light and the room is centered around an attractive period fireplace. The fabulous kitchen/dining room perfectly marries the timeless elegance of the period features with the comfort and refinements of contemporary living creating an exceptional space for both everyday family life and entertaining. A well appointed study/office, W.C. , generous utility room, and a store room complete the ground floor.

On the first floor three beautifully presented double bedrooms including a magnificent principle suite with a bay window to the front offering a fabulous coastal outlook and also features a luxurious en suite. A stylish family bathroom serves the remaining bedrooms on this floor while the masters en suite is cleverly "jack and jilled" on to the landing offering more flexibility and a walk-in dressing room.

On the second floor are two further double bedrooms providing flexible accommodation for family and guests. From the majority of the front facing rooms superb panoramic views stretch across the coastline and out to sea Southwards towards the Lizard Peninsula and to the West towards Penzance over Mounts Bay, creating a spectacular backdrop to this remarkable home.

Externally the property is equally impressive to the front is an attractive garden with a planning application currently submitted for the creation of off road parking. To the rear is a charming enclosed courtyard rising to a generous mature landscaped garden cumulating in the elevated decking area which takes full advantage of the outstanding coastal panorama. It would seem an idyllic seating area in which to relax and entertain and enjoy the ever changing sea scape.

Porthleven is a thriving and picturesque Cornish fishing village, centred around its historic harbour which provides a natural focal point. Clustered around the harbour are a variety of pubs, restaurants, cafés and independent shops, giving the village a lively year-round atmosphere. Local amenities cater for everyday needs and include a primary school with nursery, while the nearby market town of Helston—just a few miles away—offers a wider range of facilities including national retailers, a cinema, comprehensive school with sixth form college, supermarkets and a sports centre with indoor swimming pool.

Between Porthleven and Helston lies the stunning Penrose Estate, owned by the National Trust. This beautiful area offers an abundance of scenic walks and trails through rolling countryside and ancient woodland, surrounding Loe Pool—Cornwall's largest natural freshwater lake. Porthleven also has a strong sense of community and tradition, perhaps best illustrated by its award-winning brass band, whose summer performances around the harbour often fill the evening air with music, creating a unique and memorable atmosphere for residents and visitors alike.
