Practicality has been given equal consideration, with the lower floor also providing a separate utility room, offering dedicated space for laundry facilities and storage. The quality of the interior continues throughout, with carefully considered detailing including antique bronze door furniture, satin brass switches and sockets, elegant lighting and Naked Blonde Oak herringbone LVT flooring, complemented by soft ivory carpeting to the bedrooms. The generous ceiling heights and substantial windows further enhance the apartment's sense of scale, light and architectural character.

At the centre of this landmark address stands Beverley House, an impressive late-Victorian villa which has been sensitively restored as part of the regeneration of the site. Its heritage and architecture provide a distinguished backdrop to what is now a beautifully conceived residential setting.
