Property Introduction

Situated in an elevated position in the village of Ponsanooth and enjoying views towards distant fields is this mid-terraced character cottage, which in recent months has undergone much improvement and refurbishment.

The property retains much of its original charm and features, such as a beamed ceiling and exposed stone wall whilst offering generous accommodation with the advantage of having a gas fired central heating system and uPVC double glazed windows. From the lounge, a stable door gives access into a well equipped kitchen with a good range of storage cupboards along with an integrated oven, whilst to the first floor are three bedrooms and a modern shower room.

Externally, to the front is an allocated parking space, whilst a passageway accessing via the side of the property leads round to steps which ascend to an impressive lawned garden which also has a two-tiered paved patio which is ideal for entertaining and from here, one can enjoy a striking backdrop of rolling countryside.

Location

Ponsanooth is a popular and desirable village located approximately five miles from the historic mining town of Redruth and three miles from the Maritime town of Falmouth.

The village is steeped in history having been known for its former gunpowder mills - many of which supplied the local mines of Cornwall. Today, it is a popular community with both locals and visitors enjoying the Kennall Vale woodland, while locally can be found a village shop which also serves takeaways and caters very well for day-to-day needs as well as a village school and a Public House (The Stag Hunt). Ponsanooth is ideally located for accessing both north and south coasts with their contrasting coastlines - the north famed for its majestic clifftop walks and surfing beaches, while the south is ideal for sailing and water sports, such as kayaking and paddleboarding.

The cathedral city of Truro lies approximately seven miles distant and offers a good range of commercial outlets and being popular for both locals and visitors to explore the cobbled streets of this Georgian city.
