Our Vendor Loves...

Our Vendor Loves....

"This has been our family home for nearly half a century. Over the years it has been carefully maintained and comfortably lived in, always providing a welcoming and practical place for family life. Our dad took great pride in preserving the character of the house and keeping it much as it was when he first bought it, while our mum enjoyed it as a place to bring people together, whether for family occasions or entertaining friends. The garden has been an important element of the property for many years, our parents devoted a great deal of time to maintaining and improving it, and it remains a standout feature of the house — an extremely generous space that brings plenty of natural light, openness and a sense of calm to the house throughout the seasons.

Now the time has come for the property to begin a new chapter with different owners. While it is difficult to say goodbye to a house that has been part of our family for so long, we know the next owners will find it an easy place to settle into and make their own home".
