

87 Ullswater Avenue, Whitehaven, CA28 8SG

£120,000

Not every property needs perfection — some offer possibility and this is one of them.

Set within a well-established residential setting, this home provides the rare combination of immediate comfort and exciting future potential. While certain areas would benefit from modernisation, the fundamentals are strong, the proportions are generous, and the opportunity is clear.

The kitchen has already been thoughtfully updated; contemporary in design delivering a modern focal point that contrasts beautifully with the scope to refresh elsewhere. The bathroom follows a neutral theme, clean and functional.

The rear garden offers a private canvas for landscaping and entertaining alongside a larger-than-average detached garage; a substantial, versatile space ideal for secure parking, a workshop or hobby studio.

This is not simply a house in need of updating — it is a property with headroom. Headroom to add value. Headroom to redesign. Headroom to create something truly personal.

For buyers who see potential where others see projects, this is an opportunity worth exploring.
