An exciting project awaiting its next chapter, this three-bedroom end-terrace property on Manor Fields offers a brilliant opportunity for investors, developers, or ambitious buyers eager to roll up their sleeves and craft a home tailored entirely to their style. Requiring a complete, top-to-bottom refurbishment, the dwelling has bags of latent potential and a deceptively spacious layout ready for transformation.

Stepping through the entrance hallway, stairs lead up to the first floor, while a doorway leads into a front-facing living room. Beyond this sits a generous full-width kitchen/diner—a great space that could easily become the true heart of the home with modern units and clever redesign. Double doors open directly from the kitchen area into a conservatory, which provides additional ground floor living flexibility. Off the rear of the conservatory, you will find a practical utility room alongside a separate ground floor WC.

Upstairs, the landing opens to three bedrooms and a family bathroom. The primary bedroom benefits from built-in wardrobe storage, while the second double bedroom sits to the rear. The third bedroom, located at the front, includes a handy over-stairs storage cupboard. Completing the upper floor is the main bathroom positioned to the rear.

Situated on a generous corner plot as an end-of-terrace home, there is scope outside to create delightful private garden spaces or enhance kerb appeal. Positioned conveniently within Middlewich, close to local amenities, schools, and major transport links, this property represents a blank canvas full of possibilities for those ready to restore it to its full potential.
