GENERAL COMMENTS

Killigrew House is a very attractive, detached period house, located in a private position within the sought after village of Cusgarne and within a short walk of the primary school and excellent public house. The house has been in the same ownership for over thirty years and has been extremely well maintained during this time, but it is likely that prospective purchasers will want to upgrade the kitchen and bathrooms to their own taste. It is a very imposing house that is full of character with natural stone elevations, period features and modern additions including double glazing and large conservatory at the rear. The accommodation includes four bedrooms on the first floor, the master has an en-suite bathroom. The ground floor includes the splendid conservatory, kitchen/breakfast room, dining room, sitting room, entrance hall and utility room. A private drive leads from the village up to the house where there is parking for lots of cars and access to the detached double garage and outbuildings. The gardens have been very well cared for and include a delightful south facing front garden, larger rear garden and a further orchard forms part of an extra piece of land that was purchased separately some time ago. The outbuildings include the open fronted double garage, further workshop and home office that has potential to create a self-contained annexe for a dependent relative if required and subject to necessary consent.

LOCATION

Cusgarne is a thriving community with an excellent primary school and a well known farm shop just along the road at Cusgarne Organic farm. With the neighbouring village of Frogpool which has a public house and the village hall just half a mile away. The Bissoe Cycle Trail, one mile away from the property, goes from Devoran all the way to Portreath on the north coast following the old mineral tramway that used to transport copper and tin to the old port at Devoran. Approximately fifteen minutes by car to the north east lies the city of Truro which has a wide range of facilities including banks, shops and supermarkets plus the main line rail link to London Paddington and the North. Falmouth and Redruth are also within fifteen minutes drive as is the Carrick Roads that offer fantastic facilities for sailing enthusiasts with marinas and deep water moorings. The A30 and A39 are each approximately three and a half miles away for quick commuting.

OUTSIDE

Killigrew House is set well back from the village road and is completely hidden. A long private driveway leads up to the house and continues to the rear of the property where there is adequate parking and turning space for multiple vehicles/boats/caravans etc. An additional parking space is located partway up the drive. A paved pathway leads around the side of the house and provides access to the front garden via a wooden gate. The front garden is glorious, enjoying a sunny southerly aspect and complete privacy. A large paved terrace provides plenty of sitting out space with views over the garden focussing on a magnificent magnolia Grandiflora. Directly in front of the house is a veranda with glass roof and terracotta tiled floor which can be accessed from the entrance hallway and provides shelter and pleasant views over the surrounding garden. Steps lead from the veranda into the garden which is mainly lawn over two levels which are enclosed within a solid stone boundary wall. A feature garden pond make a tranquil escape within the garden, surrounded by various shrubs and plants including bay and holly bushes. A gently sloping lawn leads back to the lower garden which is also private and enclosed within stone and hedge boundaries. A large conifer boundary along the eastern border provides privacy and a paved path circumnavigates the entire front garden. At the rear of Killigrew House is a further terrace within attractive granite retaining walls and this is perfect for warm summer evenings. A path leads from the driveway to the conservatory and provides access into the rear of the house. Numerous outside lights illuminate the gardens at night.
