The Location
Boxmoor village is close to the mainline train station which serves London Euston in a little under 30 minutes proving a popular location for commuters. Boxmoor was mainly constructed in the nineteenth century however over the last 20 years pockets of executive and family housing have been built giving the village a variety of different properties to choose from. This area of Hemel Hempstead derived its name from the famous Box tree and the moors which are still evident as you wander through the village today. Another attractive feature of Boxmoor is the historic Grand Union Canal which winds its way through the moors on the southern side of the village providing picturesque walks. Excellent schooling is available nearby, including Boxmoor primary school, Lockers Park, Abbot's Hill, Westbrook Hay, The Hemel Hempstead School , St Rose's Roman Catholic Infants', John F Kennedy Catholic School and Boxmoor Primary School.
