Location

Downham Market is a handsome Georgian and Victorian market town on the edge of the Norfolk Fens, sitting on the River Great Ouse. Its centre is built largely from distinctive black carrstone, earning it the nickname "the Gingerbread Town", and is anchored by a striking cast-iron clock tower dating from 1878. The town offers a genuinely useful day-to-day mix: a Tesco superstore, independent shops, cafés, banks, doctors' surgeries, dentists, and a weekly market that still trades on Fridays and Saturdays. For commuters, Downham Market railway station puts London King's Cross within around 1 hour 40 minutes, making it a popular choice for buyers wanting Fenland space with a fast line to the capital. The town has a leisure centre, a cinema, several well-regarded primary schools and Downham Market Academy for secondary education. Historically an agricultural centre and horse-fair town since medieval times, it grew rapidly with the arrival of the railway in the 1840s, and its heritage centre, "Discover Downham", tells the story of the town's Fenland past. It's an ideal base for those wanting easy access to King's Lynn (11 miles), the Norfolk coast, and the Cambridgeshire Fens, while enjoying strong local amenities on the doorstep.
