About The Property

Looking for a three-bedroom home within walking distance of Cardigan town, with practical space and a layout that already feels well set up for everyday living? This mid-terraced property in Maesglas offers just that, with generous room sizes, useful outbuildings and a low-maintenance garden.

Situated within an established residential area of Cardigan, this three-bedroom mid-terrace offers a solid, straightforward home that feels ready to move into.

The layout is practical from the outset. Entry is into a long hallway, with stairs rising to the first floor and doors leading into the main living spaces. The lounge sits to the front, a good-sized room with a wide window bringing in plenty of natural light, and a fireplace forming a central focal point. There's enough space here for a full range of seating without it feeling tight, which isn't always the case with properties of this style.

To the rear, the kitchen/dining room stretches across the width of the property and feels like the real hub of the home. Fitted with a range of wall and base units, there's ample workspace alongside room for a dining table. A useful opening leads through into the utility area, which in turn gives access to a ground floor bathroom and a rear door out to the garden – a really practical setup, especially for day-to-day use.

Upstairs, the landing leads to three bedrooms and a shower room. Bedroom one is a comfortable double with built-in cupboards with radiators and shelving inside, while bedroom two is another good double, slightly larger and overlooking the rear. The third bedroom works well as a single, home office or dressing room, depending on requirements, which also benefits from a storage cupboard. The shower room is neatly fitted and serves all three rooms.

Outside, the rear garden has been designed for ease rather than upkeep, with paved areas and established borders creating a usable space without the need for constant maintenance. There are also multiple outbuildings and sheds, which add valuable storage or workshop potential – something that often makes a real difference with homes in this price range.

To the front, the property sits behind a low wall with a small enclosed forecourt, and on-street parking is available directly outside, and off-street parking to the rear.

Maesglas itself is a well-established residential area within Cardigan, made up largely of similar style homes and popular for its convenience. The town centre is within walking distance, giving easy access to shops, supermarkets, cafes and everyday amenities, while schools and healthcare facilities are also close by. The area tends to appeal to a mix of buyers, from first-time purchasers through to those looking for something manageable and well-located. The coastline of Cardigan Bay and a selection of beaches are also just a short drive away, adding to the wider lifestyle appeal.

All in all, this is a solid, well-laid-out home in a convenient location. It's the sort of property that works straight away but still offers the opportunity to make it your own over time – and in this price bracket, that balance is always worth having.
