Hardwicke is a village 7 km south of the city of Gloucester. Despite its proximity to Gloucester, the village comes under Stroud Council. Hardwicke was once renowned for its cider and cheese, this may have led to its survival during the battle for Gloucester in the Civil War – neither side wanted to damage a source of much appreciated sustenance. Though there is a typical village green and pond on Green Lane, along with some of the village’s oldest cottages, there was never a distinct centre to the village and other parts have a distinct “Victorian” feel. Added to this are the newer developments of the 1970s and 1980s, which have gradually become contiguous with the Quedgeley district of Gloucester. In the centre of the village is the Hardwicke Parochial School which is a Church of England school. The village also benefits from a village hall, a post office, a playing field and two pubs; The Royal British Legion and The Pilot Inn.
