The Property

Set well back in its plot, The Cottage is a charming vernacular dwelling which is likely to date from the mid-18th century.

Despite appearing structurally sound, it is evident the accommodation does require cosmetic improvement, with also the potential for a rear extension – owing to its generous plot. The existing accommodation provided two reception rooms and an adjacent kitchen / breakfast room, which are all full width. The first floor provided three double bedrooms.

Outside, a shared driveway to the western side of the property leads to a rear parking area and adjacent garden, which extends to the south giving access to substantial outbuilding with adjacent store. This building could be demolished, which would clearly reveal the otherwise far-reaching views over arable farmland to the south, or to be replaced with a cart lodge garage with a home office (subject to consent).

Immediately to the rear of the cottage is an attached garden store and a single garage, which could also give way to a rear addition, subject to planning and heritage approval. Although currently preserved as a large front garden the northern section of garden could adequately accommodate further parking, if required.
